...if I could say anything, it would be to ask all of the questions you can about the side effects of medications. Being on steroids for eight years to control asthma and chest infections instead of being sent to an ENT specialist to fix the sinuses not only destroyed my joints but our ability to keep up with finances. We lost our house and credit...now I can barely climb the stairs. The living room has become my entire existence...

...he is awake all night with anxiety and pain and he has to try to ignore it...

...a needle or a pain patch could cause him another infection...

...I like to sing made up songs in silly voices with my children...it helps start their day off right...it helps relieve the anguish and angst...
